

Artocarpus heterophyllus Lam.

Collection Site: Pandher

DOC: 08-08-2020

Collector Name: Naveen Gautam

Accession No. : CPUH 10514

Common/Local Name (s): Kathal, Jack Fruit, Kantiphala,

Family: Moraceae.

Botanical Description:

Large, perennial tree, densely crowned, bark brown to dark brown, thick, broken, and exuding milky latex, leaves are oval to round, dark green, thick, upper surface shiny, young saplings have lobes, inflorescence axillary, solitary, flowers are small, whitish-yellow, ripened fruit yellowish green, large in size with spike on the outer surface, sweet in taste, seeds oval to round.

Flowering/ Fruiting: March-July.

Part Used: Bark, seeds, fruits.

Cultivation: Cultivated by few people.

Longitude: 76°36'14"E.

Latitude: 31°39'38"N.

Altitude: 888m.

Fig. 4.12 Economic potential of Artocarpus heterophyllus in comparison to conventional crops