

Pistacia integririma Stewart.

Collection Site: Balute

DOC: 05-06-2021

Collector Name: Naveen Gautam

Accession No. : CPUH 10586

Common/Local Name (s): Kakar-singi, Chakra, Karkata, Ghosha.

Family: Anacardiaceae.

Botanical Description:

Deciduous tree, bark is dark grey to blackish, rough, leaves are large, pinnately compound, lanceolate leaflets are opposite, margin entire, stalkless, shining, dark green, turn red in autumn, horn-type galls on the leaf and petiole, flowers are reddish in colour, occur in panicles and are small, fruit is globular, purple to blue in colour.

Flowering/ Fruiting: March-May/June-October.

Part Used: Gall called as kakarsingi.

Cultivation: Wild.

Longitude: 76°35'25"E.

Latitude: 31°40'03"N.

Altitude: 874m.

Fig. 4.77 Economic potential of Pistacia integririma in comparison to conventional crops