CONCEPT NOTE OF THE SEMINAR

Everywhere on the planet species live together and depend on one another. Biodiversity is the key indicator of the health of an ecosystem. The world is facing too many environmental crisis such as emission of green house gases, deforestation, climate change and loss of biodiversity etc. Man Made disruptions to environment and biodiversity can cause extinction because pollution creates dangers for both animals and humans apart from other living organisms.

Therefore a balance between development and environment is highly required. Because mankind owes the natural world a moral obligation, India is looking forward to achieve sustainable development to explore the different dimensions of environmental problems and possible solutions thereof.
